"The title sponsorship means that Farmers is the 'official insurance and financial services provider' of the SWAC," explained Faye McClure, Farmers Vice President of Strategic Marketing. "The sponsorship is a Farmers tradition of reaching out to communities and young students in today's world and letting them know we support them not only in athletics, but all that they do academically and in their future endeavors."

The SWAC is a mid-major college athletic conference headquartered in Birmingham, Alabama, which is made up of historically black colleges and universities (HBCUs) in the southern United States. It participates in the NCAA's Division I for all sports; in football, it participates in the Football Championship Subdivision (FCS), still frequently referred to by its former designation of Division I-AA.

"We are elated to announce Farmers Insurance Group as the title sponsor for the SWAC football and basketball championship events," SWAC Commissioner Duer Sharp said. "This agreement with our newest corporate sponsor allows the rich history, tradition and legacy of our great conference to partner with the one of the nation's most innovative companies and allow enhancement of the Championship experience for our student-athletes."

The Farmers Insurance Group 2009 SWAC Football Championship and SWAC Basketball Tournaments will be nationally televised on ESPNU. The football championship will be played December 12 at 1PM (CT), with the basketball tournaments being held in March 2010.
